At Nip & Tuck Plastic Surgery in Atlanta, board-certified plastic and reconstructive surgeon Dr. Nicholas Jones brings together artistry, precision, and a deeply personal approach to help patients look and feel their best. Known for delivering natural, refined results, Dr. Jones has become a go-to expert for discerning clients who expect exceptional care and outcomes.

With dual expertise in cosmetic and reconstructive surgery, Dr. Jones offers transformative procedures that restore confidence while enhancing natural beauty. His tailored, concierge-style care ensures that each patient receives a bespoke experience from consultation through recovery. Always looking ahead, his practice now incorporates cutting-edge peptide therapy to support healing and overall wellness—a reflection of his commitment to holistic, patient-first care.

Equally devoted to giving back, Dr. Jones is passionate about mentorship and representation in medicine. He works closely with 100 Black Men of Atlanta and his fraternity, Kappa Alpha Psi, to mentor high school, college, and medical students—helping shape the next generation of leaders in healthcare.

Originally from New Orleans and trained in Augusta, Dr. Jones was drawn to Atlanta's diversity and vibrant culture. Establishing his practice here has allowed him to merge his professional goals with a city that feels like home.

Blending innovation with integrity, Dr. Jones continues to redefine the standard for modern plastic surgery—transforming lives through artistry, precision, and exceptional care.
